

NPCI Digital Rupee CBDC Platform Overview

The Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC) platform is built using Go, Apache Kafka, and Hyperledger Fabric. It enables secure and scalable digital rupee transactions.

Kafka is used as the event streaming backbone between core banking services and the Hyperledger Fabric ledger network. Go microservices handle wallet management, transaction validation, and settlement reconciliation.

This document describes the architecture, deployment topology, and operational runbooks for the CBDC platform team.